

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE ELECTROTECHNICAL INDUSTRY

Rollout of Online Registration Database for LOA Safety Applications

Dear Stakeholders,

The National Regulator for Compulsory Specifications (NRCS) Electrotechnical Business Unit hereby invites the Electrotechnical Industry to the launch of the online registration database for the Letter of Authority (LOA) Safety Applications. This will be done through a webinar session which is planned to take place during the last week of 30 October 2024.

The session is scheduled to cover LOA Safety Applications for all the electrical/electronic products that are within the scope of following compulsory specifications:

- VC8003
- VC8006
- VC8008
- VC8011
- VC8012
- VC8029
- VC8036
- VC8039
- VC8052
- VC8055
- VC8075
- VC8077
- VC9105
- VC9110

The training on the day will consist of a morning and afternoon session. Below is a mini programme of the session:

1. Introduction, Overview and Demonstration of the new system: 09h00 until 11h00

- The NRCS will explain how the rollout will occur and answer industry questions. (30 minutes)
- Participants will be shown how to register and navigate the system. They are required to have access to product test reports which they can use during the demonstration of how to complete an application. (90 minutes)
- Company representatives will then be encouraged to submit multiple applications on the test system during the day.
